IV. Installation Deadline, Delays in the Installation

1. The installation deadline shall be deemed to have been complied with if the installation service is ready for inspection acceptance by the Buyer, or in the event of a contractually agreed upon test, ready for its performance by the agreed upon deadline.

2. In the event that the installation should be delayed by force majeure or through measures implemented in conjunction with labour disputes, in particular strike and lock-outs or by the occurrence of circumstances the Contractor is not responsible for, and provided such hindrances do verifiably have a significant impact on the completion of the installation, a reasonable extension of the installation deadline shall be granted. This shall also apply if such circumstances should arise after planetroll is already in default of timely completion.
3. In the event that the delay caused by the installation company should result in damages to the Buyer, the Buyer shall have the right to demand payment of a lump sum late completion compensation. In the event that the installation should prove not contract compliant over the course of the acceptance inspection, planetroll shall be required to eliminate the deficiency. However, if the deficiency is minor, the Buyer shall not be in a position to refuse acceptance.
2. In the event that the acceptance inspection should be delayed for reasons planetroll is not responsible for, the acceptance shall be deemed to have occurred two weeks after notice of the completion of the installation work has been given.
3. The Buyer's right to reduce shall also apply in all other cases where the elimination of deficiencies has failed. Only in cases where the installation, despite a reduction, is verifiably of no interest for the Buyer, shall the Buyer have the right to rescind from the contract.
